Artificial Intelligence and How to Navigate: Building an AI Governance Program for Your Municipality

Waters D & E

Artificial Intelligence is rapidly transforming local government services, decision-making, and community engagement. For municipal attorneys, understanding AI is no longer optional, but understanding alone is not enough. Municipalities must move beyond awareness toward action by developing AI governance programs that protect their communities, mitigate legal risk, and ensure responsible adoption. This presentation will provide a practical framework for navigating the AI landscape, covering how AI is being deployed in municipal operations, the legal and ethical risks of ungoverned AI, core components of an effective governance program (including acceptable use policies, procurement standards, risk assessments, and accountability mechanisms), the evolving regulatory environment, and the unique role municipal attorneys play as governance leaders. Attendees will leave with actionable takeaways, including model policy language and strategies for building internal buy-in, giving them a concrete roadmap to harness AI's benefits while safeguarding against its risks.
